Wells pleads guilty to rape, sexual abuse

Michael Alan Wells, 44, of South Alexander Creek Road, entered an Alford plea of guilty as a jury trial was ready to begin in Edmonson Circuit Court last week. He was facing multiple counts of rape and sexual abuse.

Wells appeared in court with his attorney, Gary Logsdon, and by agreement with Commonwealth Attorney Tim Coleman, the defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered an Alford plea of guilty.

He pleaded guilty to 10 counts of second-degree rape and five counts of first-degree sexual abuse.

Wells had originally been charged with 10 counts of first degree rape, 20 counts of first degree sexual abuse, 30 counts of first degree unlawful transaction with a minor, six counts of first degree sodomy and three counts of second-degree unlawful transaction with a minor.

Kentucky State Police arrested Wells in December 2010 following an investigation.

Sentencing is scheduled for April 16 by Edmonson Circuit Court Judge Ronnie Dortch.

Wells is allowed to remain free on his current bond until sentencing.

Alert newspaper reader helps in apprehending man wanted by police

Edmonson County Sheriff Wil Cannon said a person that his department had been looking for was apprehended over the weekend in Glasgow.

Kris Dillard, who Sheriff Cannon wanted to talk to in connection with a recent theft at Mike's Boat Storage near the entrance road to Nolin Dam State Park, was arrested by Glasgow police.

Cannon said someone who heard Dillard's name called while at T. J. Samson Hospital in Glasgow remembered reading about Dillard in the Edmonson News and called the dispatch center in Brownsville. The person wished to remain anonymous, the sheriff said.

Cannon asked the dispatcher to contact the Glasgow Police Department who went to the hospital to check it out. Police nabbed Dillard after a foot chase. Cannon said he was lodged in the Barren County Jail.

Dillard was wanted on warrants in Edmonson, Hart, Warren and Larue counties, Cannon said.

Burglary is investigated

The Edmonson County Sheriff's Department is investigating a theft of construction tools from the residence of Penny Poteet on Wingfield Church Road January 30.

Sheriff Wil Cannon said anyone with any information is asked to call the sheriff's office at 597-2157.

Sheriff Wil Cannon said Welborn, of Cox Rd. in the Rocky Hill community, ran off the road, came back on the roadway, overcorrected, went back off the road over an embankment and hit a tree. He was not wearing a seatbelt Cannon pointed out.

He was taken by Edmonson County EMS to The Medical Center.

Cannon said he likely died as a result of the injuries he received in the crash.

Mammoth Cave pumps $62 million/year into local economy

Mammoth Cave National Park generates $62 million for the south central Kentucky area each year, according to a recent economic impact study by the National Park Service.

Beginning at the national level, the study reveals how the national park system as a whole, has a trickle-down effect that pays out big dividends to the communities adjacent to each park.

"The Money Generation Model, developed by Michigan State University, is a tool each NPS area can use to calculate its economic impact on surrounding communities," said Superintendent Patrick Reed. "Mammoth Cave has a sizeable effect on the quality of life in the caveland region."

The Money Generation Model is based on a park's annual visitation; approximately 500,000 people visit Mammoth Cave National Park each year.

The program calculates a park's economic impact in this manner:

*500,000 visitors spend $32 million in the park and surrounding communities each year.

*Visitor spending supports 525 jobs.

*These park-supported jobs generate $11 million in take-home pay for employees.

*Take home pay spent in area communities multiplies to an added value of $19 million.

*This spending has a ripple effect ($32 million + $11 million + $19 million) totaling $62 million generated in south central Kentucky.

"Mammoth Cave National Park is an anchor attraction for many nearby tourism related businesses," said Reed. "You can also look at this as a return on investment of federal tax dollars - the park's $8 million budget generates approximately $8 in economic impacts for every federal tax dollar invested."

Tourism is the third largest industry and second largest employer for the state of Kentucky. In 2010 tourism contributed more than $11.3 billion to Kentucky's economy. Tourism has generated more than $1.1 billion in state tax revenue annually, supporting 169,258 jobs. In 2010 cave region tourism alone contributed $514 million to the region's economy, supporting 8,916 jobs for the area.

"With numbers such as these, tourism proves itself as an intricate part of state industry and employment," said Reed. "The Money Generation Model shows that Mammoth Cave has a positive impact on Kentucky's tourism industry."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- During this time of election madness, "misology" could be a useful word to know. It means "hatred of reason."
- French novelist Marcel Proust's magnum opus, "Remembrance of Things Past," has been hailed as a literary masterpiece, but not everyone was a fan at first read. As Proust was trying, unsuccessfully, to find a publisher for his seven-volume work, one publisher said, "I may be dense, but I fail to see why a chap needs 30 pages to describe how he tosses and turns in bed before falling asleep." The author finally published the first volume with his own money; after the book was hailed as a masterpiece by critics, the same publishers who had rejected Proust competed for the opportunity to print the other six volumes of his work.

- It was American author James Thurber who made the following sage observation: "Humor is emotional chaos remembered in tranquility."
- If you're a fan of the original "Wizard of Oz" movie, you might be surprised to learn that the actress who played Glinda the Good Witch, Billie Burke, was 54 years old when the film was shot.
- The award for the most needless war in history could very well go to Paraguay, whose president, Francisco Solano Lopez, believed himself to be an excellent tactician. He was a great admirer of Napoleon Bonaparte and wished to emulate the French emperor, but he had no wars to fight. To remedy the situation, in 1864 Lopez declared war on all three of his neighboring countries, Uruguay, Argentina and Brazil. His tactical abilities seem to have been of little use, however; it is estimated that 90 percent of Paraguay's male population was killed during the course of the war.

On Feb. 22, 1950, Walt Disney's animated feature "Cinderella" opens. Based on a fairy tale by the Brothers Grimm, "Cinderella" featured songs like "A Dream Is a Wish Your Heart Makes" and became one of Disney's most beloved films.

On Feb. 20, 1986, France and Britain announce that a tunnel under the English Channel linking the two countries would soon become a reality. Trains, cars and buses would be able to speed through the tunnel in less than half an hour. Construction began in December 1987, and the "chunnel" was finally completed in 1994.

On Feb. 21, 1994, CIA operative Aldrich Ames is arrested for selling secrets to the Soviet Union. At least 10 men were killed after Ames revealed their identities, and more were sent to Russian gulags. Both Ames and his wife were later convicted. Ames was sentenced to life in prison while his wife, as part of a plea-bargain agreement, was given a five-year sentence.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You don't like rejection. But instead of trying to "ram" your ideas through to an unresponsive audience, stand back and wait for a more favorable environment later this month.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Job commitments call for the tidy Taurus to charge into those problem-plagued projects and get them into shape. Then go ahead and enjoy the fun and friendships of your expanding social life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The pressures of the workplace are beginning to ease. While you still need to stay connected to your ongoing commitments, you'll be able to take more time to relax with family and friends.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might feel that you need to prove how much you can do. But be careful not to take on more than you can handle, or you risk being bogged down. An Aries has a message for you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Financially it could be a little tight for a while. So resist the urge to splurge on things you don't really need. There will be time enough to indulge yourself when the money squeeze eases later this month.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You demand trust from others. But someone is creating a situation that could put your own trustworthiness in question. Be sure to keep all lines of communication open.

Owl ID

Did you say tiny? That was my question to Don in Orlando, Fla., who wrote asking me to identify a tiny owl sleeping in a palm tree. At about 9 inches in length, eastern screech owls are common throughout the U.S. Their trilling song is mesmerizing and can lull anyone to sleep.

A large-scale trial finds that apixaban (trade name Eliquis), a new anticoagulant drug, is superior to the standard drug warfarin for preventing stroke and systemic embolism in patients with atrial fibrillation. Moreover, apixaban causes substantially less bleeding and also results in lower mortality.

The first study to investigate the effect of the breast cancer drug trastuzumab (Herceptin) on heart and vascular function in elderly patients, published in the Annals of Oncology, has found that it increases the risk of heart problems, particularly in women with a history of heart disease, diabetes or both.

As an alternative to a conventional treatment for gout that some patients may not respond to, patients with severe, chronic gout who received the medication pegloticase (trade name Krystexxa, formerly Puricase) for 6 months had greater improvement in measures of uric acid levels as well as physical function and quality of life, according to a study in JAMA. Long-term urate (a salt derived from uric acid) lowering therapy in gout aims to maintain concentrations of uric acid (UA) below a certain level. However, it is common for UA levels to exceed a recommended goal urate range during oral urate-lowering therapy among the 5 to 6 million U.S. patients with gout.

Signs with Lindsey Wilson College...

Bears nip Wildcats, Lady Cats win

In local basketball action last week, the Edmonson County Wildcats were nipped by Butler County Friday 46-44. The Lady Cats scored a victory over the Butler County Bears the same night 49-36.

In a game in Brownsville Monday (Jan. 30), rescheduled because of bad weather, the Grayson County Cougars varsity scored a 60-42 win over the EC Wildcats.

The Wildcat JV team also fell to the Cougars 37-27.

On Saturday, the Wildcats defeated Owensboro Catholic 56 to 41.

The Lady Cats lost to Grayson County 63-32 on Saturday.

Sports In Kentucky

by Bob Watkins

Murray State and UK aside, the Feel Good story is in Bowling Green

Western Kentucky U. has been struck by an Occupier movement. Fans of a Topper team that's won three of four, want interim removed from coach Ray Harper's job title. The team transformation since Harper took over a month ago is becoming a feel-good story to rival Murray State's No. 9 ranking and 23-0 streak, and Kentucky's climb to No. 1.

Harper's Hilltoppers have shown new energy, grit and growing confidence not seen before. The coach's rotation seems to have sent morale soaring too.

The Topper Revival was reflected in Harper's remark last week about the new atmosphere in Diddle Arena:

"This is the crowd that I remember ... the one when I was a kid or even when I was a growing up," he said after the Toppers defeated South Alabama. "It's the sixth man. This is our house. That's how we're going to attack it each and every time we come to Diddle Arena."

"We are not losing games at home. Our fans were the sixth man tonight. I cannot thank them enough. Our kids can't thank them enough. They played hard, they played together and to me, that is what the game of basketball is all about."

If Hilltoppers roll on, and Occupiers have their way, Harper will be out recruiting next month without interim in his title.

CARDINALS IN RE-VIVAL?

When Rick Pitino said last week he hopes his Cardinals can win "five of nine" rest of the way in Big East regular season play, I wondered if Da Coach was spinning, being pragmatic or lowering expectations.

Answers: Yes, three times.

- Pitino was spinning ... to his players.

- Pragmatic, yes. The Cardinals play at Cincinnati and West Virginia, two games with Syracuse.

- Lower expectations, of course. Routine for ball coaches. When results are "better than expected" talking heads named Vitale, Dykes and the rest roll out the laudables "What a grrrrreat coaching job. Wow!"

In fact, Louisville's play the last two weeks has been good enough, the Cardinals could be favored in all but their final game at Syracuse.

COACH OF YEAR CAL?

John Calipari could be national coach of the year, but his name is seldom mentioned as a candidate "because," ESPN's Jimmy Dykes said, "other coaches don't like him."

Ah, the politics of college ball coach fraternity. When coach of year ballots are cast, 'Like' should have nothing to do with it. Says here it isn't that Calipari is unpopular as much as resentment of his being a one-and-done shill for the NBA.

Still, with the Ville Trials still ahead — Nashville, Starkville and Gainesville — Calipari is best coach in America. The enormity of Anthony Davis progress, to three year starter Darius Miller coming off the bench ready, on to Terrence Jones growth spurts, Kentucky's ascendance is remarkable.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has detected white-nose syndrome in bats at three Breckinridge County caves.

Three common species the Northern long-eared, tri-colored and little brown bat have tested positive for Geomyces destructans, the fungus responsible for white-nosed syndrome. The caves, located northeast of Hardinsburg, are within a 20-mile radius of each other. The caves are privately owned and not

Horse owners/operators needed for Kentucky Equine Survey

A looming deadline is near for all horsemen in Kentucky: Feb. 17. This is the last day when Kentucky horse owners can provide their name and contact information for sample surveys that will estimate the number of horses in Kentucky by county, breed, and use. The Kentucky Equine Survey happens this year, and the survey team hopes to receive at least 17,000 names and addresses for the survey.

Kentucky proclaims itself "Horse Capital of the World," yet it has been 35 years since there was an accurate count of the total number of equine in the state. All horse, pony, mule, and/or donkey owners and operators in the state are urged to participate in this upcoming survey.

This important information will become available as the University of Kentucky, University of Louisville, Kentucky Horse Council, and National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) conduct a statewide equine study beginning in the summer of 2012. Results include a county-level estimate of the number of all breeds of horses, ponies, donkeys, and mules, and their uses, as well as the economic impact of equine-related activity across Kentucky.

In order to ensure that each breed and discipline is accurately represented, NASS needs a complete list of horse owners and horse operation owners across the state. Horsemen are being asked to help build this list by sending their contact information directly to NASS. NASS protects this data, and no other agency, public or private, can access any individual's information. This means the submitted information will not be used anywhere else or shared with any other organization, including those leading the survey. The NASS confidentiality pledge can be found at www.nass.usda.gov.

Horse and facility owners, please send your name, address, and phone number to nass-ky@nass.usda.gov and put "Kentucky Equine Survey" in the subject line. Or you can go to www.kentuckyhorse.org/KES-names/ and complete the form, which will be sent directly to NASS.

Again the deadline for this information is Feb. 17.

With everyone's help and participation, we will know by early 2013 how many horses there are in Kentucky, by type, use, and county, and what the overall economic impact is to the Commonwealth. This information will be used to strengthen the industry and provide a benchmark for Kentucky's agricultural economy and its signature equine industry.

White-nose syndrome spreads in Kentucky open to the public.

Confirmation of the disease was recently made by personnel at the Southeastern Cooperative Wildlife Disease Study in Athens, Georgia.

Biologists are still assessing caves within the area to determine the extent of the infection. "Caves are very abundant in this particular area of the state and we are working diligently to canvas all known sites," said Sunni Carr, Wildlife Diversity Coordinator for the department.

With winter surveys just getting underway, it is unknown if there are more infected sites yet undetected in the state. Employees of Kentucky Fish and Wildlife and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service have been working collaboratively on local surveillance and monitoring of the disease since it was first detected in New York state in 2006.

"By having a state white-nosed syndrome response plan in place, it has allowed us to quickly coordinate surveillance of known hibernacula," said Brooke Hines, state bat ecologist for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "Local grottos (caving clubs) have been a tremendous help with this endeavor."

"We have assisted Kentucky Fish and Wildlife for many years with cave surveys," noted Glenn Driskell, a caver with the Fort Knox Grotto.

Last winter, department biologists surveyed approximately 100 caves throughout the state as part of its intense monitoring protocol. At the end of the survey season, white-nosed syndrome was confirmed in a cave located in Trigg County, in southwestern Kentucky. This was the first documentation of the disease in the state.

Although it has not been shown that humans can contract the fungus, officials are still working to educate anyone who may enter a cave on the proper decontamination protocol. Decontamination helps to prevent human movement of the disease throughout the landscape. Ways that people can help stop the spread of the disease can be found online at the website of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at www.fws.gov/whitenosesyndrome/cavers.html.

White-nose syndrome is estimated to have killed between 5.7 million to 6.7 million cave-dwelling bats in eastern North America. Mortality rates of bats have reached almost 100 percent in caves infected for several years. Infections have been confirmed in 16 states, mostly in the eastern U.S., and four Canadian provinces.

2011-2012 deer season ends with fourth largest overall harvest

Kentucky's 2011-12 white-tailed deer season ended Jan. 16 with hunters posting the fourth largest overall harvest ever recorded.

"The 119,656 deer taken was the highest total since the 2008-2009 season," said Tina Brunjes, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Good hunting weather may have been a contributing factor to the excellent harvest during the last two months of the season."

Hunters bagged a record harvest of 12,989 in December, which surpassed the previous record by 4,261 set in December 2004. "Muzzleloader hunters were responsible for that big jump, checking in 10,536 deer during their nine-day late season that ran Dec. 10-18," said Brunjes.

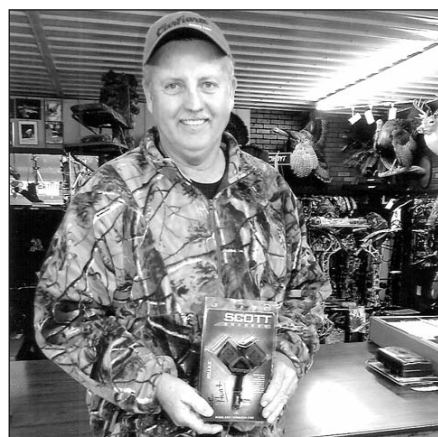

Crossbow hunters posted the highest percent of antlerless deer in the harvest, 63 percent. They also established a new harvest record in the process. Crossbow hunters bagged 1,969 deer.

For the third consecutive season, archers posted a harvest record by taking 18,169 deer, about 15 percent of the total harvest.

Archers and muzzleloader hunters took 61 percent antlerless deer. Modern gun hunters bagged the lowest percent of antlerless deer 38 percent.

Deer Hunting Facts...

This past season, Kentucky had 90,247 successful deer hunters, but 77 percent (69,776 hunters) took just one deer. Seventeen percent of successful deer hunters (15,118 hunters) took two deer, and six percent of our successful deer hunters (5,353 hunters) took three or more deer.

State offers several student aid programs

Kentucky students who choose to attend an in-state college or technical school may qualify for financial aid programs administered by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Kentucky's need-based programs include the College Access Program (CAP) Grant and Kentucky Tuition Grant (KTG). CAP grants may be used at all of Kentucky's public and private colleges. KTG awards may be used at Kentucky's private colleges. Students may apply for the CAP and KTG programs by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) online at www.fafsa.gov.

Perhaps the best known program is the merit-based Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). Students attending certified Kentucky high schools earn college scholarships based on their yearly grade point average and their best ACT score. High school students who qualify for the free or reduced-price lunch programs may also earn additional KEES money by scoring well on Advanced Placement or International Baccalaureate exams. Home school and GED graduates may earn KEES awards based on their ACT scores.

Students do not need to apply for a KEES award. If they attend a participating Kentucky college, KHEAA will automatically send the scholarship money to the college after the school reports that the student is attending classes.

KEES, CAP and KTG are funded by Kentucky Lottery revenues.

KHEAA also administers the Osteopathic

Medicine Scholarship, the Coal County Scholarship for Pharmacy Students and the Early Childhood Development Scholarship. Students may apply online for these scholarships through Zip Access on www.kheaa.com.

Senator David Givens's Frankfort Report

The Senate passed several bills this week. Of these bills, three education bills and two agriculture bills are of particular importance.

Many students felt bored with the pace of high school during their senior year. Senate Bill 86, which passed with bipartisan support, helps focus our students on the higher challenges required of them. It provides an early graduation option to high school students who meet course requirements, grade point average, and college readiness standards. A student who completes an early graduation program will receive a scholarship to pay toward college tuition at any 2 year or 4 year SACS accredited postsecondary institution in Kentucky. The bill has passed several years from the Senate; I am hopeful that the House will give it consideration this time.

Additionally, our children who are intellectually and/or developmentally challenged also work hard in their way to reach certain academic standards. Senate Bill 43 recognizes the course work of these students by providing an alternative diploma. These special children who continue their studies at the high school level are dedicated young people who should take pride in their achievements.

As many of us with children have experienced...

enced, schools are closed during elections because some schools are also used as places where people can vote. But what happens if there is no polling place there? Senate Bill 21 permits school districts where no schools are used as a polling place to adjust their calendar to keep schools open during a regular, special, or primary election. It would also allow a district to schedule election days as instructional or make-up days. This is a more efficient use of space and allows for greater continuity in our children's education.

As Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, I was pleased to sponsor and pass two bills that address the fallout from the Eastern Livestock bankruptcy. Senate Bill 92 ensures that cattle dealers and buying stations are licensed and bonded. Clearing defining these valuable market members maintains the integrity of the system by permitting oversight by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. Senate Bill 94 creates a new livestock lien that sellers can file with the Secretary of State's office when the seller does not receive payment for the livestock within three days of delivery. If the buyer resells identifiable livestock the lien then transfers to any cash proceeds. This prevents any disruption further down the market channel while protecting the initial seller.

Finally, the Right to Life Rally was on Wednesday. As usual, the Capitol Rotunda was packed with people. I remain strongly committed to the pro-life platform I have championed since the beginning. This year, as in years past, the Senate will vote on a bill to direct a doctor to have a face-to-face meeting with the woman who is considering an abortion. Right now, these "meetings" are sometimes done through a recorded phone message which is disrespectful to the woman. As with any medical procedure, a patient deserves to have the opportunity to get information directly from a medical professional and have the opportunity to ask questions. I will write more about this bill and other pro-life bills that will be introduced at a later date.

If you would like to learn more about our work, you can check us on the World Wide Web at www.lrc.ky.gov. If you would like to leave a toll-free message for me, the number is 1-800-372-7181. A taped message of information on legislative committee meetings can be heard at 1-800-633-9650 and to check the status of a bill, you may call the toll-free Bill Status Line at 1-866-840-2835.

many valuable life lessons while working with livestock, and everyone loves to see children and animals working together. However, it's important to remember livestock can be dangerous. Injuries from livestock-related accidents are a major source of injuries to children in agricultural settings.

According to the National Safety Council 17 percent of all farm injuries involve animals. It is important to think about how those injuries could be prevented and make changes on your farm to prevent additional accidents, particularly if there are children around.

Animals and humans sense their surroundings very differently, so it is important to recognize those differences and use that information to help handle animals with greater safety. Animals do not see color the way humans do. They also do not have good depth perception. They have a fear of stepping over grid patterns. These are the reasons cattle guards are good ways to keep cattle in and allow vehicles to cross. Livestock have extremely sensitive hearing, which is why loud noises frighten animals and high frequency sounds hurt their ears. Finally, animals are very protective of their young and could become dangerous if they perceive harm to their young. These issues help explain why animals can balk or become skittish in unfamiliar surroundings.

It is important to teach children safety measures for interacting with livestock, whether they will be working with them on a daily basis or visiting for the first time. Here are a few important tips:

- Avoid loud noises and sudden movements
- Wear closed toed shoes, preferably steel toed boots
- Stay away from the rear legs
- Approach large animals at the shoulder
- Stay away from animals with newborns
- Stay away from bulls, boars, or rams
- Have an escape route when working with animals in close quarters

Following these safety measures can reduce the risk of injury while working with livestock. Remember, be alert and always respect animals. They may look friendly, but they can be dangerous and unpredictable in certain situations. For more information, please contact the Edmonson County Cooperative Extension Service at 597-3628.

Four students from ECMS will be advancing to the KAAC State Finals in written assessment testing. Michelle Hawks placed first in both arts and humanities and language arts written assessment. Jessica Klusty placed first in social studies testing and second in mathematics testing. Makenzie Daniels finished third in language arts written assessment. Jacob Simpson placed fifth in language arts.

ECMS earned points

by placing fourth in the future problem solving competition. The team's fourth place finish was the highest for a team from ECMS since 2005. The FPS team prepared for the competition by researching the regional topic of human rights.

The Edmonson County team won the quick recall portion of the regional tournament by posting four straight victories. In round one ECMS put together an impressive victory over Glasgow Middle School. ECMS raced out to a 27 to 4 lead at half-time and ended the game with a winning score of 42 to 12. South Warren fell to ECMS in the second round of quick recall play. ECMS held a 26 to 10 lead at half-time and continued great play in the second half to end the game with a score of 49 to 20. In its next round, ECMS faced Barren County. Again ECMS started the game strong and held a 28 to 6 lead at the end of the first half. The two teams played evenly in the second half, but ECMS ended the game with a 42 to 20 victory. After sitting out a round, ECMS faced Barren County again in the regional championship game. The two teams played evenly in the opening minutes of the quick recall championship game. ECMS continued to play with great composure and eased out to a 20 to 13 by half-time.

Barren County made a six point run to cut the ECMS lead to five points, but the experience of the ECMS team shined. ECMS played with patience and poise and continued to add to its lead. When the final buzzer sounded, the scoreboard showed ECMS 38 and Barren County 28. ECMS emerged with another regional quick recall championship.

Coach Greg Grey had the following comments. "Months of preparation and practice paid off for our team today. This marks the eighth regional championship for the ECMS team. Several of our players started the year with the goal of reaching the state tournament and they have now reached that goal. Our quick recall play was nearly perfect. Every player displayed great intensity and great team spirit. Over the next few weeks, we will all be working harder than ever to prepare for the state competition."

Old library building goes on auction block...

A landmark building on Washington Street in Brownsville, which last housed the old Edmonson County Public Library, will be sold at absolute auction Friday, February 25, at 2 p.m. The building, with 6,00 square feet of floor space, once house the Ford automobile dealership. The back portion of the building was the home of the city/county fire departments. Ken Byrd, realtor and auctioneer, will conduct the sale.

Optimism may improve your health and success

(StatePoint) People don't often think about how optimism impacts their lifestyle, career and relationships. But a positive attitude can help you avoid stressful situations, maintain better health, and may even allow you to heal more quickly when you aren't feeling well, according to some experts.

"Optimism and the desire to be successful are the basis for a person's happiness and good health," asserts Elena Korneeva, a psychophysicologist and author of the new book "Breath of Life."

As a specialist, Korneeva promotes a happier, healthier life with these guiding principles:

- Joyful inspired and outspoken people make great company. These traits will attract people to you in both professional and personal settings.
- Laugh. People with a good sense of humor are the life of any party, at any age and in any social stratum.

- One who can sincerely laugh at his or her own mistakes can overcome most difficulties. A sense of humor is a trait of a harmonious person.

- Make an effort to truly understand and empathize with your conversation partners.

Too much of a good thing?

Millions of people regularly take one or more vitamin supplements daily. Many perceive vitamins as the way to combat nutritional deficiency from a poor or inadequate diet. With so many in the population leading busy lives, processed, convenience foods have become the go-to items at the grocery store. Because these foods may not be nutritionally sound, the belief remains that supplements can fix the problem.

Research by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's National Center for Healthy Statistics found that more than half of all Americans take a vitamin supplement daily. According to a survey by Ipsos Reid for Health Canada, 71 percent of Canadians use natural health products, with vitamins, at 57 percent, topping the list of supplements used.

There even are nutritional testing companies that will draw blood and determine vitamin deficiencies, like NutriChem in Ottawa. The right vitamin mix is then created and personalized.

While vitamins can have their benefits, many health professionals say that the best way to get necessary vitamins is through the foods you eat. Furthermore, inexperienced people are simply taking their own cocktail of vitamins, and may be taking too much.

There is the perception that taking a certain amount can be beneficial, so that must mean that taking more of the vitamin will have double or triple the benefits. What many people do not realize is that vitamins -- although they are naturally forming in food -- can carry side effects like any other medication. Taking too much of a certain supplement can lead to toxicity or different side effects. Even in moderate doses, there can be some side effects to vitamins as well.

Vitamin A: There is particular concern over vitamin A. Taking high doses of antioxidant supplements such as vitamin A might do more harm than good. Some research shows that taking high doses of vitamin A supplements might increase the chance of death from all causes and possibly other serious side effects. It can also make liver disease worse and increase the risk of osteoporosis and hip fracture.

B complex vitamins: B complexes or groups of various B vitamins put together in the capsule are some of the more popular vitamins bought. Vitamin B deficiencies can lead to lack of energy and feelings of stress and anxiety and may contribute to difficulty with sleep. There is no magic number in terms of milligrams of B vitamins; however, taking too much can result in constipation, stomach upset, swelling, and even acne associated with B-12. Many people do not realize that some B vitamins can cause drowsiness, so it's important not to drive until you determine the effects of the vitamins.

Vitamin C: People rely heavily on vitamin C to boost the immune system and promote good health. It is reported that vitamin C is largely water-soluble, so toxicity is rare. But side effects can include diarrhea, nausea and possible dental decalcification.

Vitamin D: Vitamin D has been touted as the wonder supplement in the past year. Taking vitamin D3, "the sunshine vitamin" can help regulate mood, improve sleep, regulate the circadian rhythm, among other things. Too much may cause nausea and vomiting, bone weakness, hypercalcemia -- an excessive amount of calcium in the bloodstream, kidney stones and organ calcification.

Calcium: Calcium and vitamin D work together in the formation of strong bones. Again, too much of this supplement can lead to excessive amounts of calcium in the blood. Other side effects may include constipation and stomach upset, including excessive gas. Mental and mood changes, headaches, increased thirst, and other side effects are serious.

Vitamin E: Toxicity from this vitamin may include gastric distress, fatigue, easy bruising and bleeding, muscle weakness, and diarrhea.

In addition to vitamins, other nutritional supplements have the potential to interact with medications being taken. St. John's Wort, for example, can affect cholesterol levels and the effectiveness of cholesterol-lowering drugs. It also may have contraindications with other medicines.

Although vitamins and supplements are sold over the counter, that doesn't make them any safer than regulated medications. Individuals should always consult with a doctor before beginning supplements to find out the proper dosage and what vitamins may be beneficial or harmful.

Crumb rubber mulch used at county parks

In April, 2011 Edmonson County Fiscal Court received a grant for crumb rubber mulch for Bee Spring Park playground. Crumb Rubber Grants serve two purposes. One is to recycle waste tires and the other is to reduce injuries on playgrounds and football fields. Along with safety, crumb rubber mulch adds beauty and a soft, spongy feel to the playground area.

Kentuckians generate about four million scrap tires each year and reuse about three million per year mostly as tire derived fuel and landfill liner protection. Crumb Rubber Grants are part of the state's effort to use additional waste tires.

In 1998, the General Assembly created the $1.00 per tire fee and reauthorized it in 2006 to combat the number of waste tires in the state. The Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet, which oversees this program, has used the funds generated from this fee to clean up millions of waste tires abandoned in piles or delivered by citizens to amnesty programs.

The total cost and installation of the crumb rubber mulch for Bee Spring Park was $52,750. The Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet paid 75% of the cost ($42,200) and Edmonson County Fiscal Court paid 25% ($10,550). The initial cost of crumb rubber mulch is considerably more than wood mulch in the beginning, but will pay for itself in a few years because it does not wear out and need replacing like wood mulch.

Parks Director A.B. Webb is well pleased with the mulch because "It reduces injuries, requires less maintenance and retains its beauty through the years."

County Judge Executive N. E. Reed said, "Please remember, when you see the brightly colored mulch on the Bee Spring playground, this is recycling at its best."

Parks Director A. B. Webb smooths out crumb rubber mulch around playground equipment at Bee Spring Park.

Valentine Love Notes

Valentine Trivia...
Some people used to believe that if a woman saw a robin flying overhead on Valentine's Day, it meant she would marry a sailor. If she saw a sparrow, she would marry a poor man and be very happy. If she saw a goldfinch, she would marry a millionaire.

In the Middle Ages, young men and women drew names from a bowl to see who their valentines would be. They would wear these names on their sleeves for one week. To wear your heart on your sleeve now means that it is easy for other people to know how you are feeling.
